

Invitation

Fly-In Andalusia 2017

from 7th - 11th June, 2017

The view from the Alhambra towards Albaicin, the oldest quarter in Granada, on the top of one of the three hills on which Granada was built. UNESCO World Heritage Site since 1994.

“If you haven't seen Granada, you haven't seen anything.”

This could be the motto for MMIG46's first ever Fly-In to Spain and Andalusia.

Destination airport: Airport Granada – LEGR

Alhambra? Not exactly. This impressive building is our  Hotel La Bobadilla ...

particular architectural details, too, in line with the Moorish history of the region.

Before breakfast you can fulfil your sporting ambitions by swimming in this unique pool landscape on the Hotel grounds. Fabulous.

As we mentioned in the announcement for the 2017 Fly-In, Granada and the surrounding countryside were the last bastions of the Moors.

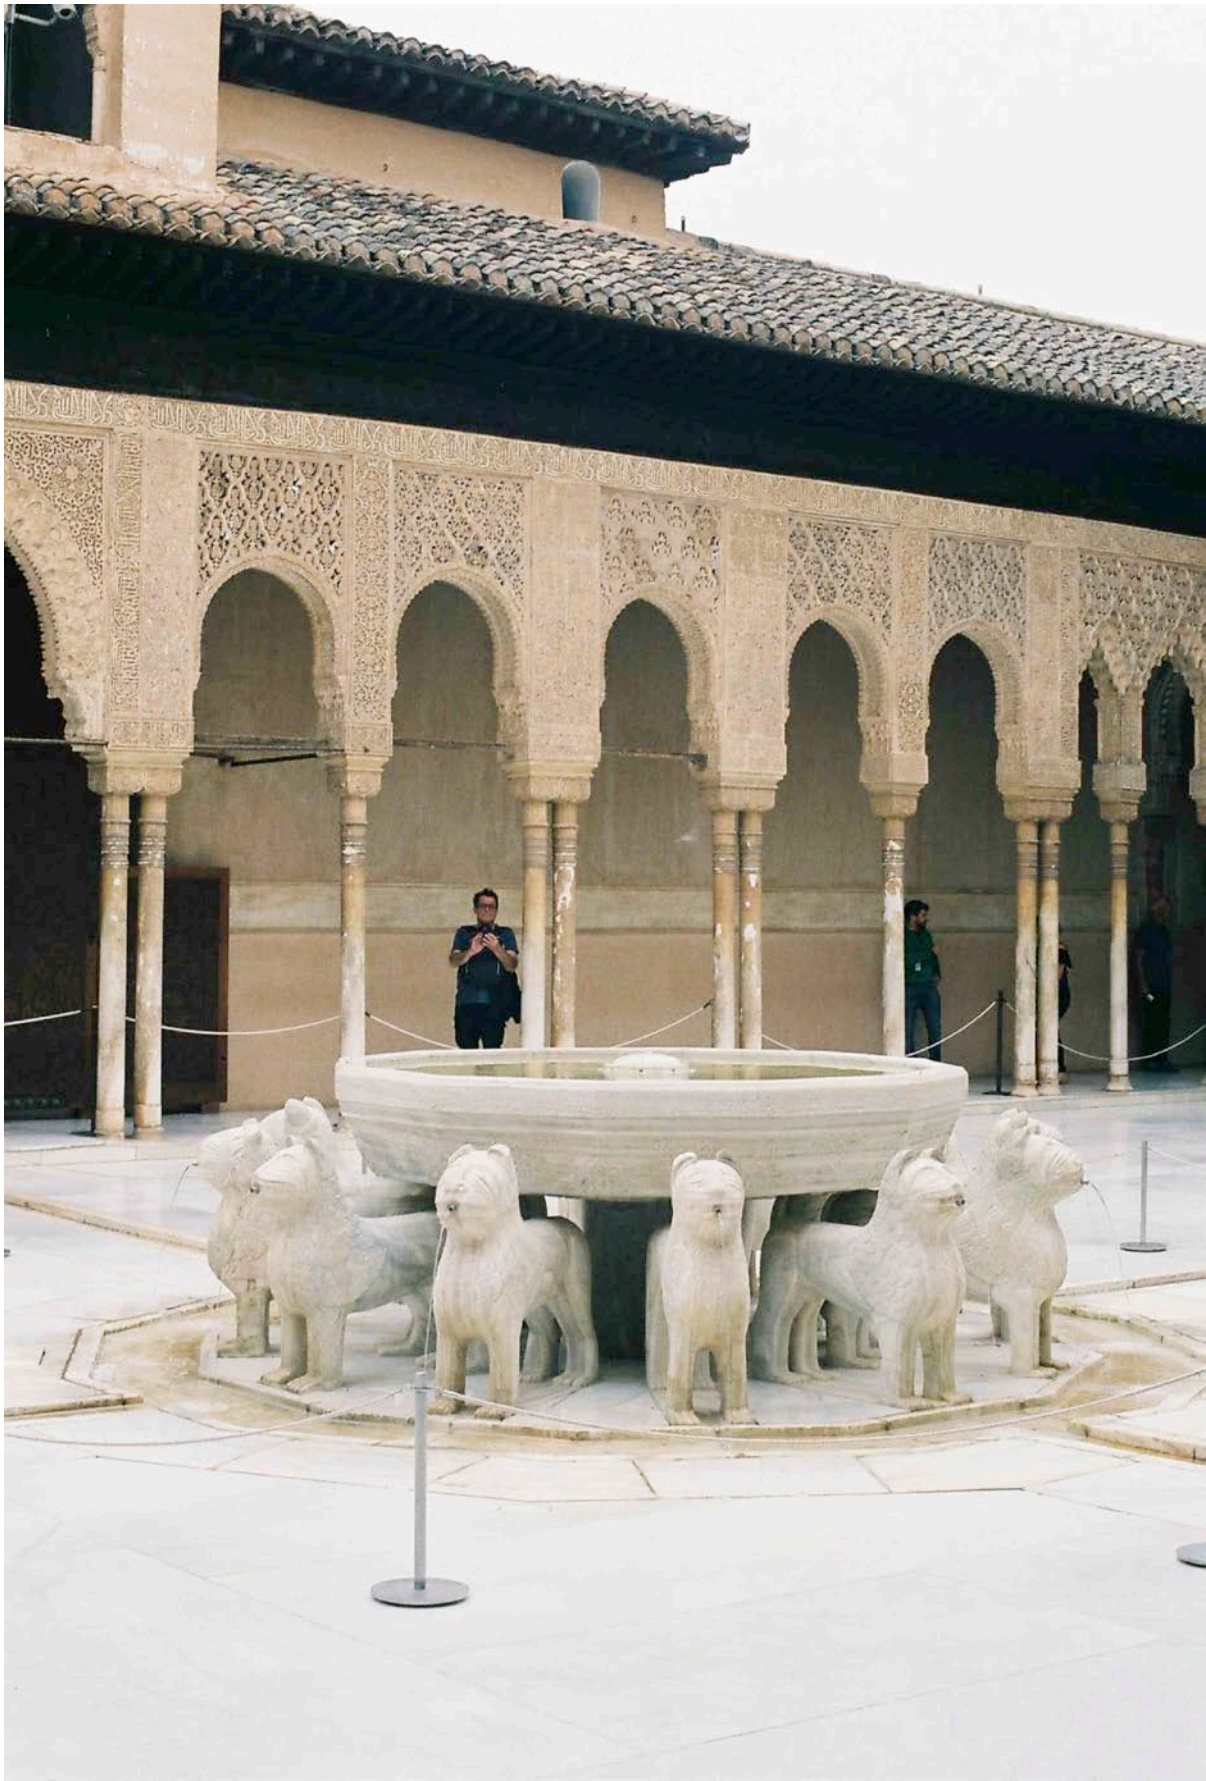

The splendid pinnacle of Islamic architecture is the Alhambra Palace. The Nasrids were emirs who built the Alhambra from 1238 on.

It's one of the most beautiful palaces in the world, an outstanding monument to the Islam of Andalusia and a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

The Nasrids' summer residence and its fountains.

View of Generalife, the wonderful gardens in the Alhambra. Generalife means “The architect's garden”, by which the creator Allah is meant.

The Patio de los Leones (Lion Courtyard) is the most famous part of the Alhambra.

That's enough for now from one of the most impressive destinations to be discovered in the world.

El Torcal – 15 km south of Antequera, fantastic rock formations created by erosion. Wild ibex can be spotted here and there's a view towards Africa. If you like, you can explore this special rocky landscape on foot.

Luckily, during the preparations for this MMIG46 get-together we were able to make other unforgettable discoveries, which we would like to share with you.

Our luxurious Finca Hotel La Bobadilla, built in the style of an Andalusian palace, has spoiled us with excellent food, too. But it doesn't look as if the rural surroundings would have much to offer in the way of culinary delights. At least, that's what we thought.

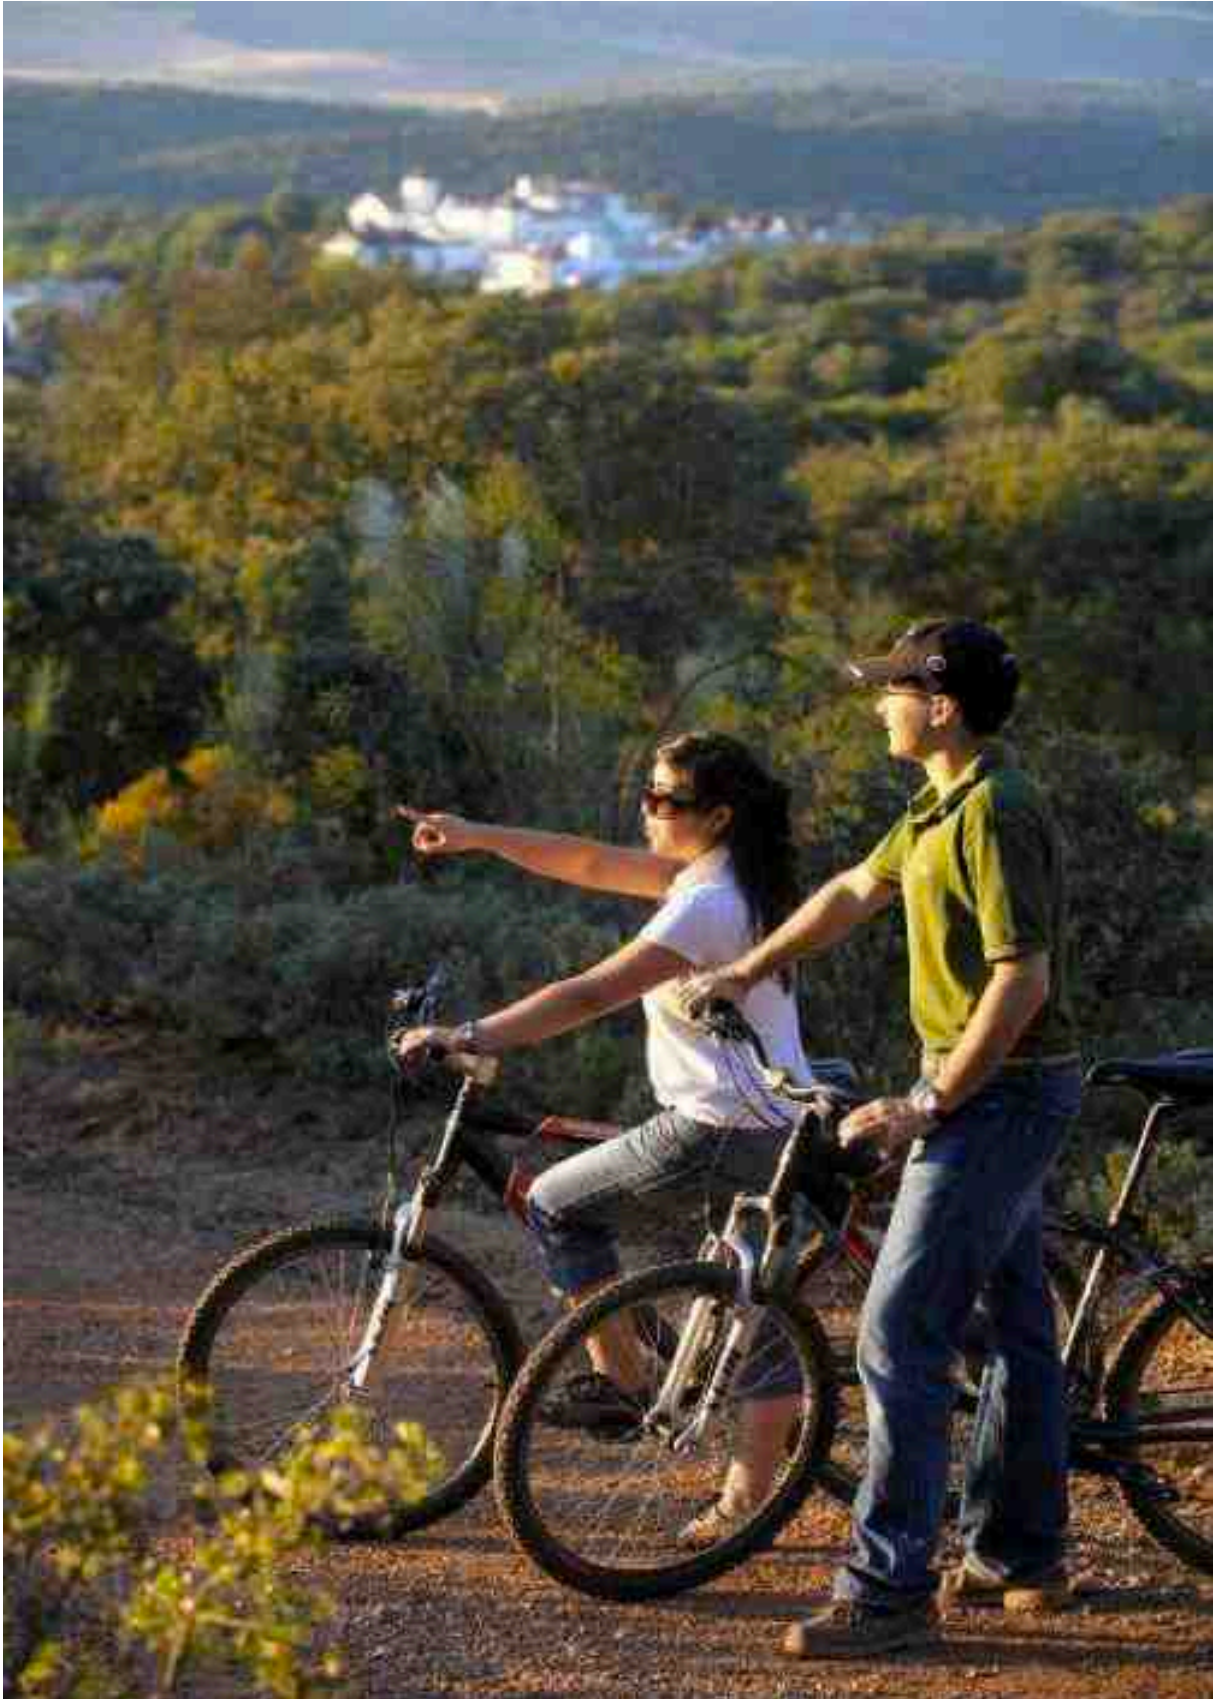

But we were not going to be discouraged by the numerous recommendations, which then turned out to be somewhat inadequate.

Our curiosity led us to a wonderfully located private estate “in the middle of nowhere”. We were told that there were rooms to rent there, but in particular that the owner was a talented cook who knew how to spoil his guests.

Not much of a chance though for a group which has become the size of the MMIG46. But the dinner we had over there in a cosy atmosphere encouraged us to ask for more.

So now you can look forward to a culinary experience in an exclusive atmosphere!

The culinary temptations provided by our Hotel La Bobadilla are exceptionally delicious even outside in the countryside. But a little exercise is necessary beforehand. Either on foot or bike or even in a coach – on the 350 hectares of wood and olive groves, criss-crossed with tracks and paths.

With guaranteed surprises!

In the evening you can, for example, enjoy your aperitif with friends in the Hotel-Finca's courtyard before moving on to the culinary part of the program.

There's so much to discover!

Look forward to our next Fly-In.

Closing date for registrations: 04. April 2017.

The first 3 registrations will be allocated a Junior Suite each without additional cost.

The following registrations will be allocated the best Deluxe Superior rooms!
